Liberty, Fellowship, Stewardship

Fostering camaraderie, fellowship and fun we find purpose knowing all are served through our utilization and stewardship of public and private land with priority for combat veterans, essential workers and their families.

Liberty Discovered

"Freedom" is predominantly an internal construct. In other words, to be free is to take ownership of what goes on between your ears, to be autonomous in thoughts first and actions second. Your freedom to act a certain way can be taken away from you – but your attitude about your circumstances cannot – making one's freedom predominantly an internal construct. On the other hand, "liberty" is predominantly an external construct. It's the state of being free within society from oppressive restrictions imposed by authority on one's way of life, behavior, or political views.

Recreational Stewardship

Volunteers generally find it extremely rewarding to give back. Historically we receive training from the US Department of Agriculture. We plan, collaborate and experiment evolving advanced methods of trail stewardship. We often establish new standards of best practice out of incredibly challenging situations.

Perhaps you're considering it for the first time? Asking yourself what's in it for me? Fun, family, friends, camaraderie, fellowship, fitness and knowledge through experienced leadership skill development.

Knowledge Point Network (KPN) is a faith-based military veteran 501(c)(3) charity dedicated to serving combat veterans and those essential to upholding the freedoms of society. Our mission extends beyond global warriors to encompass local heroes such as state troopers, sheriffs, and commissioned officers who confront the contrast between light and darkness daily.

At our charity program workshop, we focus on discovering and addressing the unique situations of each individual participant, taking into account factors such as faith, family, friendships, and sponsors. Our goal is to provide counsel and support, both directly and indirectly through a ratio of faith and pharmacy. We aid as they navigate the challenges faced by those who suffer deliberately destigmatizing the conversation related to mental health.

We leverage overlapping networks and blend diverse resources, constantly seeking innovative solutions while avoiding conventional approaches. Our commitment to a lifestyle approach, active 365 days a year, ensures that support is available not just during holidays, but also during idle moments that prompt reflection and goal-setting.

Central to our workshop is the belief that recreation and healing should be accessible year-round, transcending the limitations of scheduled activities. Trails serve as conduits for profound healing, with the natural forest often referred to as "their church" by veterans. KPN acts as the vessel through which mission purpose is provided to all stakeholders through Recreational Ecosystem Management. Consuming the healing followed by stewardship.

Our protocols and policies afford access to both public and private land, simultaneously reducing erosion, increasing safety, and fostering an enjoyable environment for productive work. We recognize the acute symptoms of stress prevalent in the struggle to sustain liberty in free societies, and our workshop offers support tailored to address these challenges.

Moreover, we emphasize the vital role of educating civilians about the experiences and needs of our warriors. By raising awareness and garnering support, we ensure that these heroes receive the recognition and assistance they deserve. Ultimately, our workshop serves as a platform for empowerment, encouraging participants to stand, deliver, and sacrifice for the greater good of society.
